

Call for research positions at the Department of Mathematics and Statistics, Masaryk University

The Department of Mathematics and Statistics at Masaryk University invites applications for research positions commencing during the year 2019 at the date depending on mutual agreement.

The positions are initially for one year with a possibility of extension.

Applications will be considered in the following areas:

- analysis of nonlinear PDEs
- numerical mathematics and computational statistics

The candidates must be recent PhD's and should submit a letter of application accompanied by a CV, list of publications and an outline of their research project to Martin Kolář (mkolar@math.muni.cz) n ot later than March 31, 2019

They should also arrange for at least 2 letters of recommendation (one can be from a Czech mathematician) to be mailed directly to mkolar@math.muni.cz before March 31, 2019. The successful applicants will be notified as soon as possible but not later than May 31, 2019.