

Workshop on Mobility modeling in Brno and Czech Republic

On Thursday, May 18th, at 10am-1pm (seminar room on the second floor) a group of transportation engineering students from Purdue University in USA will be visiting our Department to present their research on Czech highway traffic data.

We expect over a dozen of interesting short research presentations on open-ended questions in highway traffic modeling/analytics. We hope it may encourage engaging discussion, and potential ideas to inspire further applied research.

Participation is highly encouraged.
